

THE 2026 GUERRILLA FILMMAKING CHALLENGE: NEW YEAR EDITION CRITERIA, RULES, AND REGULATIONS

Attention Utah-based Filmmakers!

The 2026 New Year Edition of the Guerilla Filmmaking Challenge is here! You have just over a month to create a 5-minute short film using any available resources. Then, experience the thrill of seeing your work on the big screen in front of a packed audience!

For first-time participants, don't be intimidated. This challenge is both a creative process and a learning experience. Experienced filmmakers, push yourselves to explore new techniques. If you need assistance, join FMASU's Filmmaking Connection on Facebook, which can be a great resource for finding collaborators, including performers, editors, composers, and writers.

All completed Guerilla shorts will be showcased at The Electric Theater on Saturday, March 14th, at 6 PM (Doors open at 5:30 PM) during the 2026 New Year Edition of the Guerilla Shorts Showcase Event.

AI Use Policy

Quite obviously, AI is a big topic of conversation these days, and from our perspective, it's contrary to what FMASU stands for. We recognize that AI can be a powerful tool and can be used in many different facets of the storytelling process, but for the sake of this challenge (and the future of filmmaking in general), we don't want to see it on the screen. This is to say that if our team can see imagery/footage that's blatantly AI generated in your project (performance, scenes, imagery, script, edits, etc.), it can result in the disqualification of your film. This is something our Jury will be looking at during the judging process as well. We're not looking to police your creativity in any way. Again, we're just looking to preserve the purity of the filmmaking process. AI as a tool can be beneficial, but as of late, it is too often used as the foundation for the creative process rather than a tool, and that's where it becomes an issue. Yes, technology is becoming so advanced from day to day that it's possible for audiences to be fooled, but please be mindful of why you're taking part in this process in the first place. In the end, this is a passion plea to you, the storyteller, to create from your imagination. Don't rely on another source to create it for you.
